On last Monday evening the Anderson Palmetto Band, with a large number of our citizens, proceeded to the Waverly House for the purpose of screenading Judge Mackey and Solicitor Cothran. After discoursing delightful music the members of the band, together with the citizens generally, called

JUDGE T. J. MACKEY, who was introduced in eloquent terms by Col. Rucker, and responded in substance as Fellows: Citizens—I cannot recognize myself as the gentleman who has been so highly complimented by the distinguished gentleman who has been so kind as to introduce me to you to-night. It is, however, with profound gratitude that I schnowledge the compliment you pay me in this demonstration, which is entirely unexpected to me. I had expected to speak only in the yonder. Court House, and to hear no other music than the melodious voices of the learned members of the bar addressing the juries in behalf of their clients, and yet I must say that the strains of your rausic are far more pleasant to me, as I have no doubt they would be to the members of the bar themselves. I congratulate you on the peace, order and prosperity of your citizenship. That if ere is so small a proportion of crime within your County is a circumstance of which you should be proud. This argues well for the people of Anderson County, promises future happiness and prosperity. It is the realt of the triumph of Wade Hampton in the last canvass, which accomplished the redemption of civilization in South Carolina, and heralds an era of greater peace and prosperity in the coming future. In many respects this is conspicuously true of this County. The lost art of successful farming has been more nearly reached by your people than in many parts of South Carolina, and on this industry all others are built up. It is related as one of the most pleasing incidents in English history, in the reign of George III, that a thrifty tavern keeper recognized this principle in the construction of his sign, which was four wooden men standing one upon another. The top man was clothed in regal robes, and wore a crown emblematical of his sway, and on his forehead was written, "I govern all." The second man wore the vestitare of the church, and bore in his hand a musket with bristling bayonet, and upon his forehead was written, "I fight for all," and beneath him stood the fourth man, with his stalwart form surrounded by the implements of agriculture, and bore in his hand tall, and beats the waters into foam and blood. The radical whale in South Carolina is noticing its forces for its supreme effort in 1878. This party is compact, and guided by intelligent and fearless leaders. This fight will not be made for the control of South Carolina alone, but for the mastery of the nation by the Republican party and to obtain a majority in Congress. The election in South Carolina is a most important one in a national point, for you elect members of Congress, a Legislature which elects a United States Senator and the board of State officers who will canvass the returns in the next Presidential election. This will bring forth the highest effort from the Republicans of the North, which contains the wealth of the great merchants and bankers of the nation. If the Republican party of Ohio triumphs, the peace and prosperity of the State is uninjured, or the same will be true if the Democratic party wins, but in South Carolina it is a context for civilization and the liberty of jured, or the same will be true if the Democratic party wins, but in South Carolina it is a contest for civilization and the liberty of our race. Although the Republicans of the North represent its wealth and culture, they are willing to expunge our civilization in order to restore their own power. With a thorough organization we can triumph, and when liepublicanism sinks in South Carolina this year, it will fall like Lucifer, never to hope again. There must, however, be perfect harmony in our ranks, and we must frown down that device of Satan known as Independent candidates. Bolding in South Carolina will hereafter be punished with political death. Judge Mackey here paid a high tribute to the sagacity, honor and patriotism of Governor Hampton, and continued his speech by saving. We are threet. high tribute to the angacity, honor and patriotism of Governor Hampton, and continued his speech by saying: We are threatened in the coming canvass from external foes and from internal foes, but I believe both will fail. The people of the great Democratic party feel the elbow touch of their conrades, and beholding its stainless ensign they will march together to victory. It is a mistake to suppose that no effort is necessary. It is as not a good wood, on a bad road he will watch himself." The hour of victory is the bour of diager. I am glad to know that you in Afiderson County have set the example of organization, and led off in such manner that I doubt not you will be followed by the Democracy of the State. I have been reading your proceedings, and am pleased with the course of your Clubs and of your Executive Committee. I find myself in an anomalous position. I hold the principles I held five years ago, and yet I would blush to be called a Republican. The very name has become a foul disgrace. The Democratic and Republican parties now are not different in their platforms, but hey are totally different in their aims and management. The Democracy epresents the cultivation of our race, and the Republican represents the ignorance and barbarism which threatens to overthrow the peace and prosperity of our State. I shall hold my allegiance with the Democracy of the State and nation, and hope in the coming carwass to return to Anderson, and again have the pleasure of addressing you.

you.

SOLICITOR COTHRAN

was next called for, and responded in one of his cloquent and forcible speeches, in which he complimented the Anderson Democracy, deprecated divisions, urged unity, and gave wholesome advice to the people of Anderson County relative to the coming canvass. He urged the neople to do all they can, whether it be as leaders or as privates. He also complimented the Anderson Band and the Waverly House, and spoke of the importance of perfecting our military clubs. His speech was full of peint, and elicited frequent applause. We regret that a lack of space forbids a full report of his able speech.

COL. E. M. BUCKER

was next called for, and made an eloquent speech, after which Mesars. E. B. Murray and W. W. Humphreys were called for, and returned their thanks for the compliment extended, after which the meeting dispersed.

The man who runs as an independent candidate this year does so because he cannot get the endorsement of the good people of the County, and because his derire for office is greater than his self-respect or his patriotism. He is a first-class hypocrite and is unworthy to be trusted in any position.

Dear Sir—9 ° My doubts have all been removed. Your medicine acted like a charm. You know when I consulted you that I had very little hope of being cured unless by a surgical operation, as the trouble was pronounced cancer of the breast by two leading physicians of Memphis, Tenn., who stated that it would have to be cut out. You will not blame me, therefore, for my incredulity. Your treatment was so different and simple and the results MANYALOUS. I am free from the shooting pains and the itching and burning sensation that continually worried meso. My complexion has cleared up, I have gained flesh and mentally am quite a different person. Dr. B. H. Mitchell says he never saw such improvement in such a short time, If this will be of any use to you, you can publish it.

DEFINITION OF THE CHEWEST OF THE CHEWE

S Dr. Gurley—My daughter is so grateful to you, and says she will ever love you as alse does the preacher who converted her. What a happy shild she was on the train! She saw so many things and enjoyed herself so much. You don't know how happy we all are, for we were led to believe that nothing could be done for her that would restore her sight. I shall ever remember with gratitude your can be and kindness while under your treatment at the Institute.

A Word to those In zreated.

A Word to those in rested.

One dear to me had been afficted with partial but gradually increasing deafness—caused by catarrin, by no means an uncommon trouble. I applied to Dr. J. W. Gurley, of this city he hesitatingly took the case in hand, but after a short treatment the dear one has been almost entirely restored. If any that may happen to read this should be affilted in the same way, I would advis them to apply to him. His treatment is new. I find him honest, frank and will not flatter to fleece. He is at 33½ Whitehall St., Atlanta, Gs.
